Innovative mobile applications based on audio features

Educate your brain to sound recognition and memorization! This is the challenge launched by Arkamys with a suite of mobile audio applications, which will be soon available on the App store and Ovi store. The Arkamys mobile applications will make you discover how audio can be an attractive and educative element!

This series of mobile applications is a first step into the business to consumer market.

Arkamys Memory is the first application of a four games series. It consists in recognizing and memorizing sounds. You can choose your favorite soundscape from four different ones. After you made your choice, you hear sounds from several directions (bottom left, bottom right, top left, top right). You have to reproduce each sequence that you have heard. Each time you succeed in, the sequence will become longer.

Arkamys Memory will be available on the 20th of July. Other applications developed by Arkamys will follow in 2010.
